CargoWise edi and StockLogix Ink Alliance

Venture Adds to Warehouse Management Expertise for CargoWise edi

Sydney, Australia, September 13, 2007 — CargoWise edi, a leading provider of integrated international supply chain logistics management systems, recently announced a strategic alliance with StockLogix, a foremost provider of software products to the third party logistics warehouse management community. The alliance combines CargoWise edi's leadership position in the Australian international supply chain logistics market with StockLogix's strengths in the warehouse management sector.

The alliance benefits the warehouse market by combining the development strategies of both companies in order to deliver the next generation of warehouse management software for the international supply chain logistics management industry. The partnership provides an opportunity to bring the best features and capabilities of the StockLogix products to CargoWise edi's powerful award winning edi*Enterprise* software suite. The company plans to support the StockLogix product line for some time.

Richard White, Chief Executive Officer of CargoWise edi, commented: "Whilst the two companies develop quite similar products in the Warehouse/3PL space and we have great respect for Mathew Pascoe, Director of StockLogix, and his products, we believe that when combined, we become a much stronger and more completely integrated WMS solutions provider. We plan to make a strong push toward providing 'state-of-the-art' 3PL solutions and we look forward to combining the rich heritage of products such as Warehouse Wizard, StockLogix and Scope Warehouse to our flagship edi*Enterprise* warehouse capability."

Matthew Pascoe, who brings with him 15 years of experience in the third party logistics sector, will be heavily involved in the development of the integrated warehouse management products and will continue to manage the existing StockLogix customer relationships.

Mr. Pascoe added: "This merger will provide our clients with access to leading edge warehouse management technology and will provide them with a significant advantage in the marketplace. I look forward to working with the developers at CargoWise edi to further develop an already powerful product offering."
